RUST COLLEGE CELEBRATING ACADEMIC EXCELLENCE IN CYBERSECURITY RESEARCH

HOLLY SPRINGS, MS – Rust College proudly recognizes its accomplished faculty, Dr. Denise Ferebee, an associate professor in computer science, and her team have achieved a significant milestone with their work, “Immersive Learning: Understanding the Psychology of Crime Using Virtual Reality,” accepted by The Journal of The Colloquium for Information Systems Security Education.

This achievement exemplifies the institution’s commitment to advancing knowledge boundaries. The research embraces a multidisciplinary approach, merging Psychology and Criminology into the realm of Cybersecurity education. By connecting these diverse fields, we gain insights into the human factors driving Cybercrime.

The paper explores the psychological facets of Cybersecurity, providing us with a deep understanding of the intricate world of Cybercrime. It not only imparts knowledge but also inspires collaboration across disciplines to innovate solutions for modern challenges.

Rust College commends Dr. Ferebee for her dedication, expertise, and vision. We eagerly anticipate her continued contributions to our academic community and the broader field.
